MEDIA AND THE CITY: URBANISM, TECHNOLOGY AND COMMUNICATION (GEOGRAPHY, ANTHROPOLOGY, RECREATION) BY CHIARA GIACCARDI PDF

The percentage of people living in cities and the adoption rates of communication technologies continue to grow across the planet. Our age has come to be defined as one of urbanism and communication; but how are those two intertwined? How do they shape each other? Where and in which ways do they diverge, support or fold into each other? As new tensions emerge and old ones find new solutions, social sciences are forced into a dialogue with media studies and urban studies in order to make sense of the new reality. New theoretical and methodological paradigms are urgently needed, and can be produced only through a fertile and eclectic dialogue. This volume presents some of the latest research in this exciting, cross-disciplinary field. Issues of conflict, mobility, crime, art, memory, ethnicity, identity, and city marketing and branding come under rigorous scrutiny in their mutual and constitutive relationship with urban space and communicative technologies and practices. The volume is divided into three broad sections. The first section deals with the role of media in the social production of urban space - that is, with how media interact with other forces in giving shape to the materiality of the city. The second section deals with how urban space acts as a context for a variety of media-related practices - especially in relation to the popularization of mobile geolocalization technologies which have given us mass phenomena such as Foursquare. The third and final section deals with how urban space is mediated and communicated through ICTs - or in other terms, how urban space is represented by specific media through specific discursive strategies.
