Misleading title for a compilation of articles

By rainbow traveller

This book is just a compilation of articles from various sources that go from individual researchers to the India Daily. It is therefore very difficult to review it and impossible to verify the information as only the source is given, but not the title of the book or paper, or the date of the article for the newspaper. The topics range from esoteric matters, such as aura viewing, to scientific concepts for the general public (dimensions, possibility of time travel , etc) and are arranged in a random way with little logical connection between the chapters.

Now, who are the Ulema? In Arabic they are scholars, but some names given (Master Li among others) are not Arabic, so is this a secret society of some sort? Not all the sources are scholars, some authors quoted include very controversial people such as David Icke and Laurence Gardner, but Mr. De La Fayette writes as if they spoke universal truths...

Finally, the book is full of grammatical errors and poorly built sentences obviously written by a non-native speaker of English. Maybe some proofreading would have helped the book gain another star.

Very disappointing compared to the promising title.

The Pearl of Great Price

By Anne Gorman

This book is a rare pearl! It is an excellent map for Consciousness expansion. There are enough mental exercises in the book to last us the rest of our lives. We learn in this book how to protect ourselves from negativity, how to read auras; we learn about teleportation, remote viewing, the healing touch, and the secret of longevity. We are taught about the conduit located in the brain's cells which when activated can take us to places and spaces presently unknown to most of us! We learn of the Akashic Records, as well as stargates to other worlds; and more than that, we learn about the fourth dimension. Although the material is vast and almost overwhelming, I believe we should have confidence that we can successfully master these exercises. Thank you, Mr. de Lafayette, for sharing the precious Ulema teachings with us. You have opened new doors for us to enter!

Those who have written reviews criticizing the teachings in the book are unable to "see outside of the box" and have mistaken a pearl for a stone. They are not open to new truths and have their minds already made up out of their habits of "seeing" along a very narrow range. It is unfortunate that they cannot share in the light. Mr. de Lafayette is a truth seeker and is sharing his light with all who thirst for truths. He shares the precious Ulema teachings out of love for humanity -- and for our spiritual growth and enlightenment. I ask those who criticize the book: Have you tried any of the exercises in the book????

Continuing One's Education In Law

By Roger K. Pool

This is an impressive "how to" book for the man or woman who have taken the steps to be granted their sovereignty. It gives one tools and explanations of those unseen elements that play a crucial role in our life experience. As spiritual beings we are children who are only now waking up to a new and wonderful world. A word of caution, however, this book is not for the man or woman seeking enlightenment and truth. This book is an important handbook of many for those who have already crossed the threshold. Although one might be able to instill in themselves the need for transcendence by reading. I would recommend this book to the newly enlightened who are looking for answers to explain the reason why things happen in the new world around them. It may not make much sense to the uninitiated.
